THE WIFE.

BY MRS. ANN S. STEPAENS.

Like ivy, woman's love will cling
Too often round a worthless thing.

It was midnight in London; the theatres were closed, the houseless wanderer sought the dark alley which had sheltered his wretchedness on many a miserable night, and lay crouching to the wall as the watchmen paced heavily by, lest he might be dragged forth from his hidding place and deprived of his sole remaining possession, personal liberty.—
Laboring men and honest trades people had been long asleep, the side walks were deserted, save by the midnight reveller, the abject and the vicious, but through the fashionable thoroughfares carriage after carriage, laden with manly and beautiful life, swept by, their splendor but half revealed by the blaze of the enamelled lamps they carried.

A fashionable house in the West End was thrown open to the distinguished of London that night, and, long after the street lamps had burned themselves out, lordly equipages rolled to and fro from the illuminated mansion. The rainbow light that streamed through the drapery of each tall window had fallen on many a beautiful form gliding up those steps, but in no instance had it touched a being more lovely than the fair young girl who paused with modest grace to gather up her scarf before she followed her companion, an elderly lady, through the labyrinth of statues that lined the broad stair case.

She reached the drawing-room; music was swelling through the glittering crowd assembled there—the strains of a light cheerful waltz. A glow rushed over her cheek, and the folds of azure gauze that covered her bosom rose and fell with its pleasant throbbings, till the sprig of white jasmine that gathered them at the throat trembled as if shaken by the night wind. Lucy Sprague was seventeen years of age. It seemed like enchantment to her, the glitter of diamond, the swelling music, and the crowd of breathing life, bathed in that glowing lamp-light.
It was no marvel that her bosom heaved and her soft eye sparkled as she gazed upon it.

As Lucy Sprague, the orphan heiress, had descended from her carriage, two young men were crossing the street, arm in arm. They had just come from a neighboring club house, and, if the light had been sufficient, an observer might have detected the glow of wine on their cheeks, and a sparkle of the eye which betrayed excitement if not confirmed inebriety. One of them, a dark haired young man, with midnight eyes and features such as one dreams of for a re-veiling poet, uttered an exclamation of delight as his observation was drawn to the young heiress, and springing forward he stood in the shadow, grasping his companion's arm, and with his eyes riveted on the girl till she disappeared from the stair case.

"Come! fortunately I have an invitation," he said, forcing his companion toward the door.

"Surely you will not attempt it; remember the wine you have taken. You are already half intoxicated."

"With the beauty of that girl, boy, not with wine,—come!"

"No; if you wish to present yourself to the countess in this condition, I will be no party in the outrage; why, man, that hair is falling over your forehead like an unpruned grape vine."

"Confound such comparison! You can think of nothing but grapes and the blood of grapes. I tell you the sight of that heavenly girl has rendered me as sober as a cardinal," and as he spoke the young man dashed back the raven curls that had, in truth, almost concealed his forehead, gave them a twist from the temples with his hand, and turned with a laugh to his friend.

"There, will that do? Am I sufficiently presentable?"

"As you will be to night," replied the more reasonable companion, smiling in spite of himself, for there was something so spirited in the handsome face turned toward him, so frank and determined, that he saw no hopes in contending against his project of entering the house, and could only resolve not to bear him company.

"So you will not go?"
"Most assuredly I will not!"
"Good night, then—breakfast with me to-morrow, and I will tell you all about her."

"Good night."
They shook hands. The next minute young Burke was ascending the staircase of that palace dwelling, composedly as if it had been his own home. He urged his way through the crowd, and reached the dancing room. The object of his search was there, sitting by the tall lady who, had entered the house with her.— Burke took a position directly opposite the window they occupied. Many a smiling look fell on him from the dancers as they whirled by; eyes brighter than the diamonds that flashed above them were turned upon him from the crowded walls, for Burke was the fashion. Though a younger son, wild, impulsive, and prodigal, his great personal beauty, his accomplishments, and the fascination of his address, rendered him a favorite even among the elder ladies, who could not make up their minds to discountenance him altogether, though terrified every day of their lives lest he might persuade some of their aristocratic daughters to throw themselves away and share his extravagance and poverty, or redeem him from the latter.

"Hey, Burke, are you here playing the wall flower?" said a young guardsman, as he turned from escorting his partner to her seat. "How is it that I have not seen you among the dancers?"

Burke muttered some vague answer to this address, and did not seem inclined to become more sociable. The guardsman was passing on, but that instant he caught a glimpse of Lucy Sprague, where she sat half concealed by her protectress.
An expression of pleasant surprise came over his face, and, after convincing himself by a quick glance that it was impossible to cross the room, he bowed. Burke was looking at the young girl; he saw the smile accompanied by a gentle bend of the head with which she acknowledged his friend's recognition, and turned eagerly toward him.

"Do you know the lady?" he said.
"Know her? of course I do; how beautiful she has grown! Shall I present you?"

"Certainly."
The guardsman looked up. It was not usual that the fastidious young man before him permitted an introduction, now he seemed eager for it.

"But you must dance, I can see by her face that she is dying for a partner —unfortunately I am engaged."

"An orphan of good descent, and heiress to a neat fortune. Stewart, the great banker, is her guardian, and that is his wife, sir. How her diamonds light up the beauty of my own sweet friend as she leans over her! There is no fear of losing caste in that quarter, she will set half the town crazy in a month."

When the next quadrill struck up Lucy Sprague stood in the circle with young Burke; her small feet trembling to the music as she waited her turn to dance, and her cheek glowing with blushes called forth from the admiring eyes that fell upon her from every direction, now that her beauty was rendered conspicuous by the attention of a partner so distinguished.

The dance was over and Burke still lingered by the side of his partner; the wine which he had drunk, the brilliant beauty that he gazed upon, music and the voluptuous breath of flowers, all served to excite his wondrous powers of pleasing. The warm, wild poetry of his nature was aroused, it burned upon his lips, and gave expression to his eyes.—
The young girl listened, and it was enough. The rich tones of that voice seldom found their way to a heart which was not subdued by their eloquence and earnestness, for though wayward and dissipated, Burke was always sincere.— His faults were the more dangerous that there was a dash of chivalry and much that was noble always mingled with them.

"Shall we dance again," he murmured, "or would you prefer the air of this balcony? It overlooks the garden."

"The balcony," she said, with girlish eagerness; then checking herself she added, blushing, "the heat is oppressive here."

Burke lifted the mass of crimson drapery that fell behind the seat they occupied, and, flinging open a sash, the young pair stepped forth to a full view of the moonlit garden, its shrubbery and the flowers that greeted them with their gentle breath. The music came softly from within, and all around lay the quiet moonlight. It was a dangerous hour for the heart of that guileless creature—dangerous for them both, for with him love was salvation, or injustice—with her, life or death; she was a woman, and to her love was but the beginning of immortality.

she dreamed; it broke over her whole face like sunlight on a magnolia flower. It was all a dream, a wild sweet vision, and when the sunshine stole through the curtains of her bed chamber, the young girl awoke smiling, and with a blush on her cheek, a blush brought there by the memory of visions that had haunted her slumber—visions of a village church with the strong light shot out by creeping ivy, and two persons kneeling together in the holy calm thus created. She arose and hurried on her dress, for it was late and she was not certain at what hour young Burke would call.

"Lady, Mr. Stewart desires your presence in the library."

Lucy bent her head to the footman who had delivered this message, and he turned away without observing the pallor which it brought to her face. She arose, put aside the drawing she had been employed upon, and made several other self-deluding excuses for remaining in the room, though her hand trembled more and more every object she touched, and her face became absolutely pale with apprehension. At length she made a desperate effort and went down, more nervous & unpleasantly agitated than she had ever been in the whole course of her life. Mr. Stewart was a grave, gentlemanly person who had outlived every thing like impulsive feeling years before he became guardian of that orphan girl. She came to him in his spacious library blushing as if she had done something to be ashamed of. The banker received his ward courteously as ever, though an anxious and stern expression lowered on his forehead, and he sat down evidently pondering some unpleasant subject in his mind. She knew what it was, and placed herself in the darkest corner of the room, mustering what courage she might for an interview which under any circumstances would have been embarrassing, and was now peculiarly so.

For some moments, the man of business sat in his easy chair looking at the changing features of his ward, while he toyed with the pages of a volume which lay on a table where his right hand rested, evidently wishing to seem occupied with it alone.

"I wish to converse with you, Miss Sprague, on a subject which is far from a pleasant one to me at least. Mr. Burke has just left me."

He paused as if expecting some reply, but Lucy sat with her eyes fixed upon the carpet, and but for the mutations of her cheek might not have seemed conscious of his address.

"Your silence convinces me of what I before suspected," he said, more quickly, "that the young spendthrift was not authorized by you to make the assertion which he did make."

Lucy looked up now, and the color speak with you," she said, with gentle firmness; "my full, free permission; you would not have been troubled else."

The banker turned in his chair and looked keenly in her face.

"It pains me to hear it," he said, "for I can never consent to a union which must bring you to certain poverty perhaps to a worse fate."

Lucy turned pale, but met his eyes firmly, as one who had made up her mind and was not capable of abandoning a position once resolved on. The banker arose, sat down on the fauteuil she occupied, and took her hand with a degree of parental kindness never exhibited to her before.

"Let me entreat you," he said, "reconsider this matter; you cannot know the character of this young man."

"I know it better than his detractors; he acknowledges his faults, he conceals nothing," said the young girl, gaining power of voice and confidence with each word; "you judge him harshly, sir."

"I judge him as the world judges, with the experience of sixty years to aid my observation. I know that he will never become a good man, or a kind husband to any reasonable woman, much less to one beautiful, warm-hearted and gently nurtured as you have been."

Lucy felt the tears start to her eyes, for some part of the banker's speech had brought to her mind the memory of those who had indeed nurtured her infancy with such affection as young parents sometimes weave about an only child. She felt how beautiful a feeling domestic love was; how much of heaven might be gathered under our roof, and these reflections did not aid the banker in his attempt to dissuade her from the heart dream that had in truth bewildered her better judgment.

"He is poor and extravagant," persisted the banker, mistaking the source of her emotion.

"I have money enough for both; his fine taste need not be thwarted," was the generous reply.

The banker pressed his lips together, for her firmness disturbed even his philosophy.

"A wine drinker, a heartless profligate in every thing."

"Nay, heartless he is not—it is unjust cruel, he does not deserve it—if he were all this, I have one firm defence to make for what I intend to do," she broke off and her cheek became crimson beneath the tears that flowed over it.

"May I inquire what that reason is?" said the banker.

"I love him."

"And are doubtless persuaded that he seeks you from love in return, and not for the thousands left by your father?"

There was a touch of sarcasm in the banker's voice, and it fell harshly on the struggling heart of his ward.

"I know that he loves me for myself alone. I am as certain of it as that my pulse beats, or my voice is now filling your ear—I want no better proof than beats in my own bosom—heart answers to heart in this!"

There was something beautiful in the confidence which filled that young heart—beautiful but dangerous; for a moment the cold eye of her guardian lighted up with admiration, but he saw the precipice on which she was standing, and proved how deeply his interest was enlisted in her welfare by the trouble which he took to drag her away.

"I cannot consent to this sacrifice—will not consent."

"I grieve that this is your determination," said Lucy, with meek dignity, "but my word—my soul is pledged; I cannot war forever against his pleadings and my own heart. He has faults—I acknowledge he has—no one admits that more frankly than myself; but he will amend them. You do not know how warm and true his nature is."

The banker shook his head.

"Let it be so, then," she added, smiling through her ears, "I can love him spite of his faults."

"This is sheer infatuation," muttered the banker, pacing up and down the library after his ward had left him, "but if she will fling herself away I am exonerated—there is no legal power by which it can be prevented."

Late Foreign Intelligence

Arrival of the Britannia.

15 DAYS LATER FROM EUROPE.

The steamer Britannia, Captain J. Hewitt, arrived at East Boston, at half past eight o'clock on Saturday evening, bringing London papers to October 18, and Liverpool papers to the 19th. She has brought 95 passengers from Liverpool and 25 from Halifax, and left eight at Halifax.

The Britannia brings news of a good deal of interest of the state of affairs in Great Britain, as well as from China. In Ireland the agitation seems to have received a check, in the peaceable arrest of O'Connell and several of his followers, on a charge of a conspiracy to excite sedition, and their giving bail for their appearance for their trial on the 2d of November. A large military force was assembled in Ireland for the support of the civil government, should their interference be necessary. The disturbances in Wales seem to have, in some measure subsided. The state of commercial affairs was improved.

The India Sept. mail from Bombay, had not arrived. The steamer Oriental, however, had arrived at Marseilles from Alexandria, bringing news and passengers from India and China, which had been brought to Suva by the Oriental Company's steamer Hindostan from Calcutta, and the Akbar, from Hong Kong and Singapore. These steamers brought Col. Malcolm, Secretary of Legation, from China, with the ratified treaty, and 108 passengers from Calcutta. By this conveyance is also received ample intelligence from China and India, with the Tariff, and other commercial arrangements entered into by Sir Henry Pottinger for the definite arrangement of the China trade, which seem to be highly satisfactory.

These steamers brought Col. Malcolm, Secretary of Legation, from China, with the ratified treaty, and 108 passengers from Calcutta. By this conveyance is also received ample intelligence from China and India, with the Tariff, and other commercial arrangements entered into by Sir Henry Pottinger for the definite arrangement of the China trade, which seem to be highly satisfactory.

The Steamer Caledonia, Capt. Lott, from Boston, arrived at Liverpool on the morning of the 18th.

Mr. Cushing, our Minister to China, arrived at Alexandria in the steamer Oriental on the 17th of September. He had audience with the Viceroy, and left on the same day for Suva, whence he was to proceed to Bombay in the monthly steamer, expecting there to meet the American squadron ready to receive him and to convey him to China.

IRELAND.—The most important intelligence of a general nature, is that of the course adopted by the British Government, to put a stop to the progress of agitation in Ireland. A great repeal meeting had been called for Sunday, the 8th ult. at Clontarf, which was expected to outnumber any of the "monster meetings" thus far held, when, on Saturday afternoon, the 7th, the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, De Grey, issued his proclamation, forbidding the meeting. The Committee of the Repeal Association was immediately called together, and it was resolved, on advice strenuously urged by Mr. O'Connell, that the meeting at Clontarf should be countermanded, and every means used to prevent the people from disobeying the order of the Lord Lieutenant. At the same time Mr. O'Connell avowed his intention of remaining in Dublin to continue the agitation, instead of proceeding to his country seat as he had intended. A notice of the abandonment of the meeting was adopted, and it was immediately printed, in the same shape as the Lord Lieutenant's proclamation, surmounted, like that document, by the royal arms, and industriously circulated. Persons on the part of the Association were sent to all the outlets of Dublin, and to all the places at which preparatory assemblies of the repealers were to be held, to disperse and send back those coming to the meeting, but the time at which the prohibition was declared, was so near that appointed for the meeting, that many were already on the road toward Clontarf.

On Sunday, all the troops in Dublin were paraded, supplied with 60 rounds of ball cartridge, and disposed on the ground appointed for the meeting, and on the roads thither. The day, however, passed off quietly, and the troops were withdrawn at night without disturbance.

On the 9th and 11th, great meetings of repeal associations were held in Dublin, at which Mr. O'Connell was present and spoke. On the 14th, Mr. O'Connell and his son were arrested upon warrants issued by Judge Burton, charging them with having conspired, with others, to change the laws of the realm, and with having raised money for that purpose, and with having, before various assemblies of the people, used inflammatory language. The Attorney-General was to proceed by indictment, and not ex officio, if the grand jury found bills. Mr. O'Connell immediately after giving bail by entering into recognizances in the sum of £1000, with two sureties of $500 each, issued a letter to the people of Ireland, calling upon them to keep peace, and at the meeting of the Repeal Association on the 16th, he moved the "Address to the people of Ireland"—more elaborately urging the same course.

On the 16th bail was entered for Dr. Gray, C. G. Duffy, Rev. P. T. Tyrrell, T. M. Ray, K. Barrett Thomas Tierney and Thomas Steele, all leading repealers, and held to bail on information similar to that against the O'Connells.

THE REVENUE.—The abstract of the revenue for the year ending Oct. 10, had been published. It exhibits an increase in the revenue of the year, compared with that of the preceding year, of £4,076,316. This increase was owing to the property tax, the produce of which amounted to £5,052,057, and to the receipts from China. In other branches of revenue, there had been a decrease amounting to £1,868,448, mostly arising from the repeal of taxes. With the aid of the property tax, although there has been a large increase in the expenditure last year, there is a surplus of income of £908,541, it being the first surplus of revenue over expenditure for the last seven years.

The Duke of Bordeaux was in England. He is now 24 years of age, and is travelling incognito, under the title of Count Chambord. He was about to make a visit to Scotland.

The U. S. frigate Congress lately made a visit to Alexandria in Egypt, and left there Sept. 13, for Tripoli, Malta and Mahon, to winter at the latter place.

SPAIN.—In Spain affairs do not appear to be in any more quiet state. Bar. Cortes and several other cities were still closed, and a large majority of members in favor of the existing government, but great opposition to their authority was anticipated, both on the part of the army and of the people.

FROM CHINA.—The news from China is of a very interesting character. Not only has the late treaty been ratified, but a new commercial treaty has been concluded and published, by which a new tariff of import and export duties is established, and a variety of regulations of trade have been established. Sir Henry Pottinger most earnestly exhorts all subjects of the British Crown strictly to conform to the provisions of the commercial treaty.

The new regulations and new duties were to take effect at Canton on the 27th of July last. The other four ports, Amoy, Fou chow-foo, Ningpo and Shanghai, would not be open to British trade until an imperial edict to that effect should be received from Peking. This was expected to arrive early in September.

It was expected that the trade with Americans would be placed on the same footing as with the English, and that the change would take place at the same time, though no announcement to that effect had been made by the Chinese authorities.

We find the following in the Manchester Guardian:

This arrival brings accounts of the result of some of those American shipments to China, which caused so much sensation in this country a few years ago. Although but a moderate portion of the "domestics" which were shipped had arrived in China, they were selling at very low prices. Cloth which had cost 9s 9d, to 10s sterling in the United States, had been sold at $2 50; and, just before the departure of the steamer $2 30, at which latter price there would be an entire loss of the interest and charges. One cargo of American cotton, consisting of 2,800 bales, had also arrived, and had been offered for sale at Canton, but did not appear to suit the market at all, the Chinese manufacturers not approving of the staple; and part of it had been sold at about 3d per pound—a price certainly not calculated to encourage further shipments. The price of cotton was, however, altogether much depressed at Canton, and the unfavorable accounts from thence are likely to cause considerable shipments from Bombay to this country.

There was a great fire at Rochester, N. Y. on Friday morning last, destroying 25 buildings. The entire range of buildings from the alley west of the Third Church, round the corner to some distance up South st., Paul st., became a heap of ruins.

THE NEWPORT MERCURY.

NEWPORT.

SATURDAY, NOV. 11. 1843.

General Assembly.

OCTOBER SESSION.

The following is a continuation of their proceedings from our last, which we extract from the Providence Journal:

Friday Morning, Nov. 3.

IN SENATE.—The Senate came to order at ten o'clock, the Governor in the chair.

Mr. Potter introduced a bill relating to the Indian tribe; which was read the first time and passed to a second reading.

A message was received from the House, requesting the Senate to join in Grand Committee for the purpose of receiving the report of the committee to count the votes for members of Congress; and the Senate joined accordingly.

Mr. Potter, of South Kingstown, introduced a resolution relative to Thanksgiving. The resolution provides that the Governor shall appoint the time for Thanksgiving and issue his proclamation, without the necessity of a yearly resolution by the General Assembly. The resolution passed.

An appropriation of $600 was made to the Wickford Pioneers. The Senate was called on the passage of the resolution, and stood—ayes 19, noes 7.

Mr. Greene, of Providence, introduced a resolution appropriating $1000 for the payment of the State's counsel in the Bill in Equity vs. Massachusetts; which was adopted.

Mr. Potter, of South Kingstown, introduced a bill relating to justices of the peace and civil commissions; which was read the first time. By special order, the bill was read a second time and passed.

Mr. Potter, of South Kingstown, called up the bill relating to the Indian tribe; which was read a second time and passed.

Mr. Francis called up the vote of the House on the petition of Ethan Angell, continued from the last session; which was concurred in.

Mr. Potter, of South Kingstown, called up the bill from the House authorizing the Governor to appoint an agent to ascertain the condition of the public schools in this State, and for the improvement and better management thereof; which was concurred in, with an amendment.

The Senate then adjourned.

Friday Afternoon.

A message was received from the House, announcing the vote of the House upon the petition of William P. Blodget. Senate joined for the purpose of hearing the trial of the docket of private petitions.

Mr. Francis introduced a resolution, providing that there shall be no further arrests for treason or any other crime heretofore committed under the act relating to offences against the sovereign power of the State, unless by advice of the Governor; which was adopted.

Thursday Afternoon.

HOUSE.—The reading of the testimony in the case of Betsey Angell vs. Earl Carpenter occupied the two Houses till after sunset.

Mr. J. Whipple made a proposition to the parties to settle their difficulties by allowing Mrs. Angell the custody of the child, and securing to the heirs of Erastus Knowlton the property of the child provided she died under age.

The two Houses then separated.

The petition of the Narragansett Guards, for an appropriation, was received and referred to the committee on finance.

The House then adjourned till Friday morning, at ten o'clock.

Friday Morning, Nov. 3.

The House met at ten o'clock. The two Houses joined in Grand Committee, for the purpose of receiving the report of the committee to count the votes for members of Congress.

Henry Y. Cranston had 4228

John H. Weedon had 2571

Scattering 18

Majority, 1639

Whole number of votes in the W. District,

Necessary to a choice, 2385

Elisha R. Potter had 2917

Wilmart N. Aldrich had 1846

Scattering, 5

Majority, 1066

The votes were ordered to be delivered the Sheriff of the county of Washington and burned.

The Grand Committee then rose.

The petition of Wm. P. Blodget was then called up, the question being on the passage of the resolution.

After some debate, in explanation of several charges in the bill, the question was taken on allowing the amount of Col. Blodget's claim, as fixed by the House, $2509 76, and decided in the affirmative, yeas 37, noes 16.

A debate arose upon the amount to be paid to Stephen Hendricks, founded upon the items in the bill. The sum of $252 87 was finally allowed him.

The question then came up on the passage of the resolution.

The House was then called upon the passage of the resolution, as follows:

Ayes—Messrs. Speaker, Ames, Allen,

A. A. Angell, Andrew, Babbitt, Barber, Branch, Brayton, C. Brown, Cottrell, Cranston, Dixon, Durfee, Field, Greene, Hall, J. A. Hazard, B. R. Hoxie, G. H. The House then adjourned.

Friday afternoon.

Several petitions were received and referred.

An act authorizing the sale of certain Indian lands, on condition of those who sell removing to Wisconsin, was presented by Mr. Urdike, and read first time.

The two Houses then joined for the purpose of continuing the trial of the docket of private petitions.

Betsey Angell vs. Earl Carpenter was again taken up.

The counsel for the respondent moved for a continuance, but there being a proposition made by Mr. Whipple that the custody of the child should be changed, meanwhile, the motion was withdrawn.

Mr. Allen moved that the case be continued, and the House decided to continue the petition.

Messrs. J. L. Tillinghast and W. H. Potter appeared as counsel for the petitioners, and Messrs. S. Y. Atwell, T. F. Carpenter and E. H. Hazard for the respondent.

Some remarks were made by counsel after the vote was taken, and the counsel for the respondent offered to suffer the child to remain half the time with Mrs. Angell.

The petition of inhabitants of School Districts Nos. 7 and 8, North Kingstown, for separate act of incorporation, was then taken up, and after a full hearing, the prayer was granted.

The prayer of the petition of inhabitants of School District No. 6, Johnston, for power to levy a tax to build a school house, was granted.

The prayer of the petition of Coventry Central Baptist Church, for charter, was granted.

The remainder were postponed.

The two Houses then separated.

The House agreed that when they adjourned on Saturday, they would adjourn to meet in Providence in January next.

The House then took a recess.

Friday Evening, Nov. 3.

IN SENATE.—The vote of the House upon the petition of William P. Blodget, was taken up.

Mr. Potter, of Cranston, called for the yeas and noes.

The Senate was then called as follows:

Ayes—18. Noes—6.

Read, relative to Providence and Pawtucket East Turnpike Company; vote upon petition of Gardner Tillinghast, for sale of real estate; do upon petition of Manville Light Infantry; act to incorporate the Nooseneck Guards; act to incorporate the First Baptist Society in Lonsdale; act relating to the Agricultural Bank; act explanatory of the militia law.

On motion, the Senate adjourned till 9 o'clock to-morrow morning.

Saturday Morning Nov. 4.

The returns of the Manville Guards were received and approved.

The votes of the House on the following subjects were concurred in: Act allowing sundry accounts; continuing the petition of Ephraim Miller; petition of George Kenyon for sale of real estate; petition of Rhode Island Guards for appropriation; petition of Avery R. Briggs and Sarah Hopkins for change of names; upon the report of Treasurer of Providence Washington Bridge corporation; an act in amendment of an act to authorize the city of Providence to establish a house of correction and for other purposes; act concerning the erection of buildings in the city of Providence; petition of John McLean; petition of Jonathan Sherman; act to authorize the sale of certain Indian lands. Also, the votes upon the petitions of the following convicts for liberation: John Cheese, Peter Carson, Isaac Matthews, William D. Fessenden, Thomas Collins, James Childs, James Britton, Esack Colwell, and Elisha Stensbury.

The General Treasurer's report was received and accepted. The report showed a balance in the treasury of $12,078 10.

The petition of Willard Hazard, to not pros. indictment, was taken up.

Mr. Lawton opposed granting the petition. It was continued to the next session, with a stay of proceedings.

The petition of Narragansett Guards, for an appropriation, was taken up.

Mr. Steere called for the yeas and noes, which were ordered, and the vote was concurred in, as follows:—Ayes—14. Noes—7.

The Hon. Elisha R. Potter, Senator from South Kingstown, resigned his seat, and a new election was ordered on the 30th day of December.

A vote was received from the House adjourning the General Assembly to the first Monday in January, 1844; which was concurred in. Whereupon, the Governor declared the General Assembly adjourned accordingly.

Friday Evening.

HOUSE.—The House met at 7:12 o'clock.

Votes were passed upon the following petitions, viz: Of the Rhode Island Agricultural Bank, for appointment of receivers—William P. Olney was appointed receiver; of Martha Greene, guardian, for sale of real estate; of Gardner Tillinghast, guardian, for sale of real estate; of Amos M. The report of the General Treasurer was read and accepted.

The vote of adjournment was then passed, and the General Assembly then adjourned to meet on the first Monday in January next, at the State House in Providence.

State Elections.

NEW YORK.—The election in New York for the choice of members of the Assembly, and a fourth part of the Senate, took place on Tuesday last. The N. Y. Journal of Commerce of Thursday evening says, "The Democrats have carried the State by a majority not differing much on the whole, from that of last year. The Whigs will not have more than 6 Senators out of 32. Last year 10."

In the Assembly, according to present appearances, the Whigs will stand better than last year when they had 36 members out of 123."

In the City of New York the Whigs have elected one member of the Assembly out of the thirteen; in addition to which they have elected Col. William Jones, Sheriff, by about 950 majority.

MICHIGAN.—The election in Michigan for the choice of the Governor, State Senators and Representatives as well as for Representatives in Congress, took place on Monday last. Three members of Congress were to be chosen.

MISSISSIPPI.—On Tuesday last the election for Governor, Legislature, and four members of Congress took place in Mississippi. We shall learn the result in a few days.

MASSACHUSETTS.—The election in Massachusetts for Governor, Lt. Governor, State Senators and Representatives, as well as for four Representatives in Congress to supply vacancies, will take place on Monday next, the 13th inst.

EARLY WINTER.—On Tuesday evening it began to snow in this place, and on Wednesday morning the ground and roofs of buildings were covered with snow. This is with us the first snow of the season. Yesterday we had a gentle rain and the snow has entirely disappeared.

At the north and west of us, in Vermont, New York and Pennsylvania, there was snow of considerable depth more than a fortnight since.

The New-York and Stonington boats have discontinued running daily, and will for the future run but three times a week from each place.—leaving Stonington on Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays, and New York on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays.

CORRECTION.—We were led into an error last week in noticing the Custom House appointments. It was stated that E. Atkins was appointed Permanent Inspector in place of G. W. Ellery, removed. We are glad to learn that Mr. E. retains his place, and will continue to act as Deputy Collector. The appointment of Judge Atkins, was in addition to the old officers.

The Providence Herald denies that Mr. Dorr was refused accommodations at the City Hotel, as intimated by the Providence Journal in noticing the arrest, and it calls upon the papers who have copied the alleged misstatement to correct it.

The U. S. Circuit Court, will meet at Providence, on Wednesday next the 15th inst.

Accident.—A man named Wilbert, from Buffalo, sleeping at Hou's Coffee House, corner of Liberty and Washington streets, about one o'clock this morning, fell from the second story window, on the walk, and was badly injured. He broke his arm in several places, and otherwise hurt himself, so that his life is despaired of.—N. Y. Com. Advertiser, of Tuesday.

COWHIDING BY A LADY.—On Saturday evening Mr. Russell, ex manager of the Arch street Theatre, was cowhided by Mrs. Madison, an actress, in the parlour of the Western Hotel in Market street. Russell made no resistance.—The difficulty originated as is alleged in a defalcation on the part of the manager. It is said the case will undergo a legal investigation.—Phil. Gazette.

Loss of the Whale Ship PARKER.

The New Bedford Mercury has received Sandwich Island papers, which furnish various interesting items of shipping intelligence. Among other incidents, they relate the loss of the whaling ship Parker, Capt. Sherman, and afterwards Capt. Smith, on a ledge of rocks in the Pacific Ocean, near Ocean Island. The Mercury furnishes the particulars of this disaster from the Sandwich Island Advocate. Capt. Sherman had been drowned, the year previous in consequence of his boat being capsized and stove after he had struck a whale, and while surrounded by a number of whales. This happened Dec. 14, 1841. On the 24th of September, 1842, the ship struck on the ledge of rocks above mentioned, and four men were lost, viz. H. Kelly, 1st mate, S. Dartmouth, Mass.; Wm. Sutton, seaman, Boston, Mass.; Antonio, seaman, Payta, Peru; John Linter, seaman, Dorsetshire, Eng. The rest of the crew, 23 in number, by means of a raft, after much suffering for several days, got on shore.

The raft floated on a level with the surface of the water; but after 8 days and 7 nights, of incessant labor and intense suffering from hunger and thirst, they succeeded in reaching the island. When they landed their condition was most pitiable. Nearly the entire distance from the spot where the raft was built, to the island, they were obliged on account of currents, to warp, by repeated swimming with a line, and making fast to the bottom, then hauling up. Having reached the island, they were actively engaged in making necessary preparations for a residence, until some friendly vessel should take them off. They found some remains of the wrecked Gledstones, which served for firewood and building materials. One solitary dog was the only representative of civilized life, which had been left by the crew of the Gledstones. He had lost his domestic habits, and after some weeks was caught. Being in good condition, his flesh afforded some variety to a constant diet upon sea fowls and seals. It was estimated they killed rising of 7000 sea fowls, and about 60 seals. From the old wreck of the Parker they obtained some pieces of copper, which were manufactured into cooking utensils. They sent off 120 sea fowls, with tinned pieces of wood attached to them, in the hope that some of them might be caught, and that information of their situation might thus be communicated. Here they remained more than six months. Every morning and evening, and on every Sabbath, the Captain performed religious services. Two bibles had been fortunately saved from the wreck. On the 16th of April a sail was discovered, which on the following morning was seen standing for the island.

About 10 A. M. their situation became known on board the vessel, which proved to be the James Stewart, St. Johns, N. B. The captain received on board Capt. Smith, the carpenter, the cooper and cabin boy. Twenty were left upon the island, who were generously supplied with 20 lbs. of bread, and 20 lbs. beef, each, besides 1 bbl of salt, and cotton cloth sufficient for each one a shirt, and numerous minor articles of essential benefit. The Captain of the James Stewart pledged his word that at the end of his cruise he would return for them. On the 2d of May a second sail was discovered, which proved to be the whaleship Nassau, New Bedford, Capt. Weeks. On learning their situation, he immediately ordered his boats ashore to bring off every person. He supplied them with clothing and provisions in abundance.—Every accommodation which the Nassau could afford was placed at their disposal. Seven of the number enlisted on board the Nassau to perform the voyage; while the remaining thirteen were landed at this port, under the protection of the American Consulate.

The Sandwich Island Advocate reports that the whaleship Nassau, Captain Weeks, of New Bedford, had delivered into the Consul's hands a seaman named Luther Fox, of Rensselaerville, N. Y., charged with taking the life of the mate of that ship. He is to be sent to the United States for trial.

The advocate reports the arrival at Lahaina in the interim from Feb. 16, 1843, to April 29, of no less than 36 whaleships, principally from this port, as follows: 30 belonging to the United States; two Havre; two St. John, N. B.; one London, and one Bremen. Their crews average from 25 to 30 seamen; making a total of not less than 2500 seamen.

St. Domingo.—Dates to the 14th are received. The country remains very unsettled. The inhabitants of Jeremie were fearful of inroads from the mountains.—So great was their alarm on the 10th that men, women and children turned out almost en masse and threw up breastworks with barrels of sand, &c. Nothing serious, however, had occurred up to the 14th, but the place is under martial law.

American produce was abundant but no demand. Coffee was scarce.

Melancholy Accident at Williams College.—On Saturday afternoon as one of the students, a son of Rev. Dr. Snodgrass of this city, was going out on a shooting excursion, his gun was accidentally discharged as he was descending the stairs on his way from his room, sending the whole charge of shot into the breast of a student by the name of Lord, from New York. When our informant left on Saturday, his life was considered to be in great danger. This is a most melancholy affair and will excite the warm sympathies of the numerous friends of both parties.—N. Y. Com.

FIRE IN BOSTON.—About a quarter past 12 o'clock this morning, a fire broke out in the extensive stables occupied by Mr. L. H. Braley in the rear of the Exchange Coffee House, Congress Square. It had burst out before discovered, and at one time threatened to extend through the square, but was stopped by the exertions of the firemen. The stables were destroyed, with their stock of hay and grain, but the horses and most of the carriages and harnesses were saved. The rescue of the latter from destruction may be mainly attributed to the exertions of the hands in the Courier office, who from their neighboring position, were enabled to be on the ground at the first alarm. They entered the stable, loosed and led out the horses, and then drew from the carriage house all the carriages therein, and stripped the harness room of its contents and conveyed them beyond the reach of the devouring element.—Boston Courier.

THE CHOCTAW CASE.—The Van Buren (Ark.) Intelligencer of the 14th ultimo, states that the trial of Jacob West and others, for the murder of Isaac Bushyhead and attack upon Mr. David Vann, commenced on the 25th September.—Jacob West has been convicted, and was sentenced to be hung on the 11th ultimo. The other cases have not been heard from. We learn that the jury recommended West to the Chief for pardon, and that it was supposed that the sentence would be remitted.

THE OREGON COLONY.—We learn from a gentleman who has returned from the mountains, that the Oregon Emigrating Expedition, when last heard from, had taken the Southwest pass to Fort Hall, from thence they were about 12 days travel. They were going on rapidly and without having suffered any disaster. At Fort Hall they would necessarily be forced to leave their wagons—of which they had 150 in the train—and then the real difficulties and fatigues of the journey would commence. They were sanguine of reaching the Columbia before the winter set in. Of all the persons who started in the expedition, only one had abandoned it.

Effects of Terror.—The London Athenaeum speaks of a remarkable case of the effects of terror. A lad in good health, about twelve years old, awoke in the night, screaming from the vivid impression made upon his mind by a dream, in which he thought he was about being murdered. The next day his hair began to fall off, and in a fortnight he was quite bald—and he continues so, though several years have elapsed!

Recipe for Good Humor.—Rise betimes in the morning and go early to rest, that the body may be preserved in health; let your first reflection be how short are the hours before you—if devoted to business, study, social enjoyment, or other rational recreation; and then find time, if you can to indulge in spleen or ill-humor.

Distressing Occurrence.—Among our obituary notices to-day, we record the death of Miss Isabel R. Keats. On Saturday night she sat with the other members of the highly respectable family, of which she was an ornament, until about 10 o'clock, conversing with her accustomed gaiety. At that hour the family retired, but she, after going to her room, returned to the parlor to procure something to allay a toothache. Shortly afterward a loud report and a scream were heard, and the family on rushing into the room found her weltering in her blood upon the floor, and a gun, which had stood in the room, lying near her. The discharge had lacerated her breast and neck dreadfully. The first impression was that the poor girl had committed suicide, and her half-frantic mother exclaimed, "Oh, Isabel! what made you do it?" She replied—"I did not mean to kill myself." The best medical skill was instantly called in, but she died at an early hour in the morning. Her repeated and earnest assertions can leave no doubt that the fatal occurrence was entirely accidental. She was a niece of John Keats, the young English poet, who was the friend and the peer of Coleridge and Shelley, and in her features she was remarkably like him. She was a girl of genius, and her heart was the home of all the high and pure and beautiful affections.—Louisville Journal, Oct. 30.

Rescued from the Deep.—We have in our office—but whether as a property, or only for inspection, we do not know—a curious specimen of the salt sea ocean's workmanship. It is a large horseman's pistol, so completely incrustured with agglomerated sand and shells that, but for the shape, and two openings through which the kernel, as we may call it, is still visible, it would be impossible to discover what the enclosed object was. It was picked up on a beach somewhere at the South—on the coast of Mexico we believe—having doubtless been thrown up by a storm. The weight of the mass is ten times as great as that of the enclosed weapon; and the sand and shells have become indurated to the hardness of a brick, or very compact stone.

N. Y. Commercial.

A man named Shoemaker has been convicted at Zanesville, Ohio, of the murder of his brother in May of last year.

FRIGHTFUL.—The Memphis Eagle of October, 22d says.—"The steamboat Express Mail passed up this morning, with 24 cases of yellow fever on board—buried 4 yesterday—had on board 2 dead, and there were 8 others expected to die."

Reception of Gen. Bertrand in Balt.

more.—General Bertrand was received in Baltimore with great eclat. On Sunday he attended mass at the Cathedral, and sat in Mr. Jerome Bonaparte's pew; after which, at the appointed hour, the French citizens in a body, headed by their committee, paid their visits to him. On Sunday he dined with Maj. Jno. Barney, in company with several distinguished citizens. On Monday he was entertained by J. N. Bonaparte, Esq., and in the evening attended a grand ball given to him by Major Barney. It may not be improper to mention that the father of Major Barney was a distinguished officer in the French service, and hence the great propriety of these attentions of Major B to a renowned officer in the same service, in which his father won high honors.

Monday forenoon, Col. Payne of the U. S. Army, paid his respects to the General, and invited him to visit Fort McHenry, which he cheerfully accepted; and in company with several officers and citizens he proceeded to view the fortifications at that place.

He was to leave Tuesday in the cars for Washington; hence he will proceed to Richmond, Norfolk, and the battle field at Yorktown.

United States and Mexico.—We announce with regret, that the communications that have passed between our minister, Gen. Thompson, and the Mexican minister for foreign affairs, appear to have had a pernicious influence upon the commercial relations between the two countries. We publish in another column of our paper, a decree which has been sent to us by the Mexican consul, which is one of the consequences of these communications. It is a decree from the provisional president of the Mexican republic, that closes to all foreign commerce the custom-houses on the frontiers adjoining the territory of the U. States; that is, the custom-houses at Taos, the Paso, and the Presidio del Norte.

Accordingly, the commercial relations that have existed for some years past with Santa Fe, and which promised such beneficial results, are entirely suspended.

Late from South America.—Valparaiso dates to July 18, Lima to the 8th August, and Carthage to the 17th Sept. have been received.

Bolivia had threatened Peru with war. In Lima a formal declaration was daily expected. The ports of Iquique, Colija and Arica were blockaded to prevent the introduction of ammunition into Bolivia. An American, named Handy, was at Lima exhibiting wild beasts.

Upwards of 4000 persons have died in Guayaquil within a year, of yellow fever. Commodore Dallas had arrived at Callao, via Panama, and had sailed on board of the U. S. ship Erie in search of Commodore Jones, who had left some time ago for the Sandwich Islands.

The governor of Panama is employing the soldiers in making a good wagon road across the isthmus.

The U. S. ship Relief was at Callao on the 11th; officers and crew all well. The Erie, with Commodore Dallas, had sailed for the Sandwich Islands, 7th August. The U. S. schooner Shark had sailed for Valparaiso.

Geisler, the man who was convicted by a verdict of the jury of murdering a Mr. Smith and his wife on Long Island, has made a full confession of his guilt to the priest who visited him in prison. The testimony on which he was convicted was thought by many too slight to warrant the verdict, and a collection of money was already making among the Germans to pay the expenses of further proceeding in his case. Geisler is said also to have confessed that he murdered a man in Europe, before he came to this country.

A PROCLAMATION.

By virtue of authority in me vested, I, JAMES FENNER, Governor of the State of Rhode Island and Providence Plantations, do issue this my Proclamation, appointing THURSDAY, the thirtieth day of November instant as a day of Public Thanksgiving and Praise:

And I recommend to the People of our said State, that, on that day abstaining from all servile labor and unbecoming recreation, they assemble at their usual places of public worship, and with humble and contrite hearts acknowledge their manifold offences and ask forgiveness thereof—that they return thanks unto God the Father of all for his numberless mercies, spiritual and temporal, and more especially for the gift and promises of his beloved Son, our Saviour Jesus Christ—that he hath blessed us with civil and religious liberty—that he hath prospered our national affairs—that he hath within our borders hushed the din of civil war and prevented the effusion of human blood—that he hath smiled upon the labors of the husbandman and given him a bounteous harvest—that he hath watched over those who go down to the sea in ships and do business upon the mighty waters—that our manufacturing interests and mechanic arts have been encouraged, and education and health diffused among us: That with devotion, al zeal they pray our Heavenly Father to continue his protection—to bless all in authority—and especially that he would inspire the good citizens of this State with the important truth, that the surest guaranty of their personal rights and property, consists in the sovereignty of the people as exercised in their elections and proclaimed in the supremacy of their laws—and, finally, that he would extend the benignant influences of the Gospel throughout the world,—"causing the wilderness to blossom like the rose, and the desert places to be glad."

Given under my hand and the seal of said State at Providence, this eighth day of November, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and forty-three, and of the Independence of the United States of America the sixty-eighth.

JAMES FENNER.
By the Governor: HENRY BOWEN, Secretary of State.

Poetry.

The Fatherless.

BY MRS. ARDY.

Seek not the smiling vale, sweet boy,
With early wild flowers gay,
Where birds pour forth a song of joy,
And silvery waters play;
Though violets spring beneath thy feet,
Though blossoms scent the air,
No welcome shall thy presence greet,
Thy father is not there.

Seek not the room remembered well,
Where often thou wouldst glide,
Eager thy childish tale to tell,
Close to thy father's side;
How wouldst thou count his treasured books,
And praise his pictures rare!
But never shall a father's looks
Again rejoice thee there.

Some bid thee turn to yonder mould,
Where mournful yew trees rise,
And tell thee in that hallowed ground
Thy cherished father lies;
Oh! seek his grave with sorrowing heart,
Strew it with flow'rets fair,
But 'tis thy father's mortal part Alone that moulders there.

He lives above the vaulted skies,
With spirits pure and kind,
And casts perchance his watchful eyes
On those he left behind;
May all the counsels he has given,
May all his pious care,
Aid thee to turn thy thoughts to Heaven,
And lead thy footsteps there!

Vain, dearest boy, thy earthward gaze,
Vain thy beseeching sighs,
The guardian of thy infant days,
Can glad not here thine eyes;
Yet still pursue thy search of love,
In faith, in hope, in prayer,
Till you shall reach the realms above,
And meet thy father there.

Secret Grief.

The heart knoweth its own bitterness. 'Prose
A strange power hath the human heart,
By heaven in mercy given,
Strength to perform her wonted part,
While silently 'tis riven;
To smile, even while each tender string
Is broken, one by one,
Hope to the fainting breast to bring,
While in our own, lives none.

To sit beside the sufferer's bed,
And dry the falling tear,
To gently hold the sinking head
And chase away each fear;
To gaze upon the trembling form
'Till the lone heart seems broken,
And yet amid the fearful storm,
To give of grief no token.

To hear that voice, whose slightest tone
Has sweetest music been,
Grow weaker, fainter, till each moan
The listening ear drinks in;
Yet still unmoved the placid brow
To meet that languid eye,
Nor show that parting spirit now,
How gladly we would die.

To shut within the blighted heart,
The agony, the strife,
And meekly bear our destined part,
Amid the scenes of life;
Nor cast around our own loved throng,
The gloom that reigneth there,
To check the smile, the cheerful song,
To cloud this world so fair.

But oh! the soul could never bear
This weight of silent grief
Did not its weep, one bosom share,
One kindly bring relief;
One, who, to sympathize, to cheer,
The path of sorrow trod,
To the suffering ever near,
'Tis thine, O Son of God!

'Tis thine to bind the bleeding heart,
To calm the troubled breast,
Strength, hope, and heavenly peace impart
To give the weary rest;
To point beyond this world of pain,
To that bright home above,
Where those who part may meet again,
Joined in unfading love.

A Chronological Account

of all material Occurrences from the first settlement of RHODE ISLAND.

1724.

Samuel Cranston, was re-elected Governor and Joseph Jenks, Deputy Governor.

The General Assembly passed an Act directing the manner of admitting Freemen in the several towns of the Colony.—By this act, "no person whatsoever shall be admitted a Freeman of any town in this Colony, unless the person admitted be a Freeholder of lands, tenements or Hereditaments in such town where he shall be admitted free, of the value of one hundred pounds, or to the value of forty shillings per annum, or the eldest son of such a freeholder.—Any other act, custom or usage, to the contrary hereof notwithstanding."—Previous to this time, persons were admitted freemen, without possessing freeholds.

The privilege of a ferry, was granted to Fones and Nicholas Northup, between North Kingston and Jamestown. It was called the North Ferry.

The privilege of a ferry was also granted to Hezekiah Gorton, between Warwick and the north end of Prudence.

In consequence of a scarcity of grain, the Assembly ordered the General Treasurer to purchase 2000 bushels of Corn, which was ordered to be sold to the inhabitants at first cost, and no person in Newport to be allowed to purchase more than 4 bushels at one time, nor to repeat the purchase until that should be reasonably expended.

Connecticut and Rhode Island, appoint Commissioners, to make a final settlement of their boundary.

On the 25th of March a great storm with an uncommon tide was experienced. The tide was several feet higher than it had ever been known to rise before.

GRUB IN THE HEAD OF SHEEP.—A correspondent of the Albany Cultivator says:—"What will cure a sheep that has what is called the grub in the head; or what is still better, what will prevent that difficulty? The symptoms are, ears lop, head droops, bloody watery matter from the nose, in a few days scouring, then the loss of their limbs, and they will eat for some days after they are unable to rise; and lie on their broadside. We are getting into the wool business pretty well in this town, and have lost more sheep from the grub than from any other disease; 16 grubs have been found in the head of one sheep."

The grub in the head of a sheep is the larvæ or maggot of a fly, which deposits its egg in the nose, generally in the month of August. The egg soon hatches, and the young maggot soon makes its way up into the cavities called the frontal sinuses, where it attains its growth, causing constant irritation and disease, and not unfrequently death. Arrived at its growth, it falls to the earth, enters it, and in a short time emerges a perfect insect or fly, ready to commence the career of reproduction and destruction. We formerly lost many sheep from the grub, and could find no cure for them, or but very partial ones, after it became evident they were diseased. Our course was preventive. About the time the fly made its appearance, which is early known by their exhibiting great alarm, running from one part of the field to another, with their noses close to the ground, &c., we caught our sheep, and with a wooden spatula or flat stick, rubbed the nose with tar.

We then placed tar on the bottom of our salting troughs, over which the salt was sprinkled, and this brought their noses frequently in contact with the tar.—This course we found a great preventive. Sheep, during the period they are exposed to the attacks of the fly, should have access to a ploughed field or if such is not convenient, a few furrows should occasionally be opened in their pastures for their benefit. Inhaling the dust, or rubbing their noses in it, renders the mucus disagreeable to the fly, or enables the sheep to expel the larvæ when deposited. With these precautions we had rarely lost a sheep from the grub, and think that it, most cases they will be effectual.

SPENCER'S

Pills, Syrup, and Plaster.

THE numerous proofs daily received of the utility of SPENCER'S VEGETABLE PILLS, not only from professional men, but also from individuals, previously unknown to the proprietor, many of them guardians and instructors of youth, who speak from personal knowledge, together with the rapid sale, completely satisfies him that he has not been deceived. Those recommendations have fully sustained it as a certain cure for the headache, as also a sure remedy for many other complaints it used according to the directions which accompany them.

LUCINA CORDIAL.

MAGNIN'S LUCINA CORDIAL, for the cure of speedy cure of incipient consumption, barrenness, impotency, leucorrhœa or whites, gleet, obstructed, difficult or painful menstruation, incontinence of urine, or involuntary discharge thereof, and for the general prostration of the system no matter whether the result, of inherent causes, or of causes produced by irregularity, illness, or accident.

The wide spread celebrity of this wonderful and inestimable cordial in both hemispheres is a sufficient guarantee for its quick and positive success in curing all the above affections and complaints. Nothing can be more surprising than its invigorating effects on the human frame. Persons all weakness and lassitude before taking it, at once become robust and full of energy under its influence. It immediately counteracts the nervousness or looseness of the female frame, which is the only cause of barrenness, and which, prior to Dr. Magnin's discovery, was considered to be incurable.—And it speedily removes the impediments produced by prostration, which frequently deter men from getting married. Language, indeed, cannot do justice to the merits of the Lucina Cordial, which is regarded by the heads of the faculty in all parts of the world as one of the most important medical discoveries of any age. Price $3 per bottle. Sold at No. 142 Thames Street, Newport.

DR. PETERS' Medicated Lozenges.

PETERS' COUGH LOZENGES are now rapidly superseding all other preparations for the relief of coughs, colds, asthma, whooping coughs, tightness of the chest, bronchitis, and similar pulmonary affections.

Peters' Cordial Lozenges

Are a specific for the relief of nervous or sick headache, lowness of spirits, or melancholy, languor and debility, either from previous disease or too free living, tremors, spasm of the stomach, irritability of the nerves, hysterical affection, drowsiness, cholera morbus, sense of fatigue and palpitation of the heart. From their efficacy in the relief of headache, they are called by many the Headache Lozenge.

Peters' Worm Lozenges.

These are the desiderata so long required. They are so perfectly pleasant to the taste and gentle in their operations, that they may be fearlessly administered to the youngest infant, and yet no medicine heretofore discovered can be named in comparison with it as a destroyer of worms.

Peters' Cathartic or Health Lozenge.

These lozenges will be found perfectly efficient, speedy, and safe in their operation. They purify the system, purge the blood of every noxious substance, restore the functions of the whole animal economy, and leave the individual with a reinvigorated constitution.

As an alternative medicine, Peters' Health Lozenge stands unrivalled. On the approach of warm weather in the Spring they may be taken by all with decided benefit; often preventing a protracted sickness.

Peters' Vegetable Shilling Strengthening Plaster.

This is not only the cheapest, but the best, neatest, and most comfortable plaster in existence.

Peters' Shilling Plaster is an easy and most effective remedy for pain in the breast, side, or stomach, weakness or pain in the chest, loins, or back, stiffness of the neck, affections of the limbs or joints, whether produced by rheumatism or other causes, habitual pain of the head or stomach, piles, colds, coughs, liver complaints, weakness of the spine, predisposition to break out in biles and pimples, listlessness of the frame; and for general debilitation.

Let any person afflicted as above try one of Peters' Shilling Plasters, and we will venture to say that he could not be prevailed on to discard it again, for ten, or most probably for a hundred dollars. Price 12 1-2 cents.

To the Whole World!

PETERS' PILLS.—It is admitted by all who have used them (and who has not?) that Dr. Peters' Vegetable Pills are the most unrivalled medicine ever discovered by the ingenuity of man. They are a sovereign cure for the following complaints:—Yellow and bilious fevers, fever and ague, dyspepsia, croup, liver complaint, sick headache, jaundice, asthma, dropsy, rheumatism, enlargement of the spine, piles, colic, female obstructions, heartburn, furred tongue, nausea, distension of the stomach and bowels, incipient diarrhoea, flatulency, habitual costiveness, loss of appetite, bloated or sallow complexion, and all cases of torpor of the bowels, where a cathartic or an aperient is needed.

They are exceedingly mild in their operation, producing neither nausea, griping or debility. Price 25 cents a box.

Come one, come all, and have your wills, By Patronizing PETERS' PILLS.

The Most Highly Approved MEDICINE NOW IN GENERAL USE FOR COUGHS, COLDS, AND all diseases of the Lungs.

THE VEGETABLE PULMONARY BALSAM is believed to be the most popular Medicine ever known in America, for coughs, colds, asthma or phthisis, consumption, whooping cough, and Pulmonary affections of every kind.

Extracts from Certificates.

Dr. Samuel Morrill of Concord, N.H., writes that he is satisfied the Vegetable Pulmonary Balsam is a valuable medicine, having been used with complete success in cases which had previously resisted the most approved prescriptions.

Dr. Truman Abell of Lempster, N.H., writes that he confidently recommends its use in all complaints of the chest, as equal, if not superior to any other medicine within his knowledge.

Dr. Amory Hunting, of Franklin, Mass., writes that after having prescribed the usual remedies without relief, and having consulted with several eminent physicians, he has found the Vegetable Pulmonary Balsam to have had the desired effect, and recommends it as a safe, convenient and efficacious medicine.

Dr. Thomas Brown, of Concord, N.H., writes that to his knowledge, it has never disappointed the reasonable expectations of those who have used it.

The public are particularly cautioned against the many Counterfeits or Imitations, which have partially or wholly assumed the name of the genuine article.

It is assured that it is not genuine unless one or both of the written signatures of SAMUEL REED or WM. JON'S CUTLER, are found attached to a yellow label on a blue envelope. (All labels of and after the date of Dec. 1839, will have the written signature of Wm. Jon's Cutler.) Prepared by REED, WING & CUTLER, (late Low & Reed.) Wholesale Druggists, 34 Chatham Street, Boston, and sold by Druggists, Apothecaries, and Country Merchants generally. Price 50 cents.

Those Laboring Under

sickness can at once relieve themselves from the thousand maladies that flesh is heir to if they will only follow the counsels of nature, and take the medicine which best assists her in her operations. That medicine is the Vegetable Life Medicines of Dr. Moffat. The wonderful and miraculous cures which his Life Pills and Phenix Bitters have everywhere performed, place them before all other medicines ever offered to the public. Composed entirely of vegetable substances they overcome the disease without corrupting the blood or weakening and destroying the constitution. Their nature is such that when taken into the stomach they are digested like other food, and are distributed throughout the whole system, giving additional strength to the sound parts, and purifying and restoring the weak and diseased. They not only act as a purgative in cleansing the bowels of all impurities, but they open the pores of the whole body, assist and promote all the animal secretions, and give a healthy vigor to the whole system. This is not idle declamation uttered without truth and only for effect, but is fully corroborated by innumerable letters and certificates which daily pour in upon the proprietor of the Vegetable Life Pills, from thousands who are grateful for a recovery of their health—a recovery which all other remedies had failed to procure them, and which they despaired of ever receiving. It is thus fully proved that the operations of nature are simple, and that disease of all kinds may easily be eradicated if the right course is taken to effect their cure. That course, we repeat, is to use Dr. Moffat's Life Pills and Phenix Bitters. The beneficial results they produce on the human system are apparent as soon as their use is commenced. A single box cannot be taken without giving a relief to the sufferer which will convince him of their efficacy. All who value their health, their time, and their money, will at least try the Life Medicines when attacked with sickness. Being composed entirely of vegetables no injury can possibly arise from such a trial, and once tried they will forever supersede the necessity of a physician's services, or a physician's exorbitant charges.

FALES CYPRIAN

HAIR TONIC, For the Growth, Preservation and Restoration of the Hair.

NO matter how bald a person may be, a growth of hair will be produced, and as naturally too as herbage grows on the plain, or the lily in the valley. This Tonic is warranted to cleanse the hair from Dandruff, and every other accumulating substance. Is your hair dry and falling off?—The Tonic will moisten and fix it firmly in the head. Is your hair thin or the head bald?—The Tonic is warranted to satisfy the largest desires in thickening the hair in the first case and covering the Bald Head with natural hair, in the second. It is composed of these remedial agents that restore the skin at once to a sound and healthy condition, when thus restored, you will soon discover on the head, a short soft and beautiful growth of young hair, gradually increasing in length, till it becomes like your other hair was before you began to lose it.

FALES' COUGH, WORM, HEADACHE and Diarrhoea or Dysentery LOZENGES are safe, certain and agreeable remedies for the diseases for which they are recommended.

Numerous, speedy and surprising cures have been effected by their use, hence their popularity.

DYOTT'S ORACLE OF HEALTH, (Philadelphia) Says that Fales' Medicated Lozenges are considered by those who have used them, to be far superior to Sherman's or any other introduced into that market.

THE COUGH LOZENGES, are beneficial in all cases of common colds, hooping cough, asthmatic affections, inflammation of the throat and lungs; they are also particularly beneficial for the croup, and a very good substitute for the celebrated HIVE SYRUP, COUGH CANDIES, QUINCY CORDIALS, PULMONARY BALSAM, &c.

THE WORM LOZENGES, are a safe and sure remedy for Worms. Two or three is a dose for very small children, and five or six for larger ones.

THE DYSENTERY LOZENGES, are a certain and agreeable remedy for Diarrhoea, and Bowel Complaints of Children—Full directions as to diet and manner of taking them, accompany each box.

THE HEADACHE OR CAMPHOR LOZENGES, are beneficial in cases of nervous headache in febrile affections of a typhus character. They are useful in Rheumatism and peripneumony; also in eruptive diseases, to favor the eruption or bring it back when it has suddenly receded from the skin, as sometimes happens in measles and small pox.
